ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 10, 1895.

Hon. W. M. Bines, Springfield, Ill.:

We, the undersigned, knowing your interest in the grain and hay shippers of Illinois, would respectfully ask your aid in having your Legislature investigate the disadvantages in getting receipts to boats after arrival in East St. Louis, believing it is not the intention of the great State of Illinois to have her river front controlled by a corporation where all traffic must pay a royalty and no boat can receive from the shore of this State in East St. Louis except through this corporation. The amount of tonnage can scarcely be estimated that is driven from your State on account of this monopoly.

Ferry Co. along with the two bridge companies.

"We don't complain so much of the delay as of the exorbitant charges we have to pay," said John G. Sheridan of Smith, Sheridan & Vincent. "It costs us $5 to get a car switched from any point in East St. Louis to a barge on the river front, and it costs us no more if it is transferred by boat or goes over the bridge. What we want is a reasonable switching charge on the Bast Side and a reasonable fee for the use of a barge landing for loading from the car. But the Wiggins Ferry is doing all it can to discourage the barge business. To show that an understanding must exist between the Wiggins Ferry and bridge companies, we are requested to turn our orders over to the Wiggins Ferry in the winter, when no boats are running, just the same as when the Ferry company can handle business. It costs no more and no less, and, of course, the stuff must go over the bridge, but the Ferry company likes to have us give it the orders. Oh, it is all one thing—both bridge companies and the Ferry—and they own both St. Louis and East St. Louis river fronts."

B. Harrison, President of the Harrison-Berry Commission Co., concurred in Mr. Sheridan's statements and added: "It costs us $2 a car for reconsigning, $1.50 for switching between railroads in East St. Louis, and $5 to reach the river front when the car is billed through to that point or to any point on this side. If the stuff stops in East St. Louis that costs $2 more. So if we buy over there it costs us $7 a car to get it to the barge or to this side. It think as long as the Legislature of Illinois is investigating the bridges, it might as well include the Wiggins Ferry. They all stand together."

this afternoon that he will leave Chicago tonight for St. Louis to be present at the meetings of the Senate Investigation Committee. If the evidence is sufficient to warrant it he will at the close of the investigation bring suit to wind up the bridge company.

JUST LIKE TRILBY.

Judge Thayer Takes a Carriage Ride in His Bare Feet.

United States Circuit Judge Thayer does not look like a man that would fall a victim to the Trilby craze, neither does not look like a man that would fall a victim to the Trilby craze, neither does Col. S. W. Fordyce, the Cotton Belt President. Yet some unknown miscream made them spend several hours "En Trilby," as the phrase is, on a recent pleasure jaunt. The Judge and the railroad President, together with Mr. John A. Harrison and Mr. Samuel Nichols and the ladies of their respective families, left several days ago for a trip to Pensacoia, Fla. They made a run over to Holly Springs to inspect the iron fields. Arriving at 5:30 o'clock in the morning, the men of the party began their tollet. When Judge Thayer got as far along as his underpinning, he could find along as his underpinning, he could find along as his underpinning, he could find aneither socks nor shoes. While he was making it hot for the porter, Col. Fordyce joined in. Mr. Harrison was a third recruit to the barefooted brigade. Then the party found their grips were gone, all but Mr. Nichols, who took his to bed with him. The conclusion was that some one had entered the car and cleaned out their belongings. The solution was probably correct, but it didn't help the barefooted. Judge Thayer very decisively ordered a carriage from the depot, jumped in sans socks and drove to the town, a mile distant. Although it was Sunday and scarcely daylight, he managed to get a pair of balbriggans and brogans.

INCOME TAX REHEARING.

It Will Probably Not Be Had Until Oct. 4.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 19.—It is the general impression that the petition for a rehearing of the income tax law before the United States Supreme Court will be granted, but that the rehearing will not be had until the October term.

The announcement will be made on Monday. The statement of Justice Jackson that he is able and willing to take his seat upon the bench at once, if it is decided to reopen the case immediately, does not change the impression that the court will not grant the rehearing until the fall term. The request of Atty.—Gen. Olney that the whole case be reopened and arguments heard on the points on which the court was united in the last decision, as well as on the questions on which it was divided, is based, it is said, upon the assumption that it may change its negative decision as to the constitutionality of those parts of the law. Two of the justices, it is understood, sustained the law as a whole, because during the civil war the court declared an income tax to be constitutional. If the whole case is gone into again Mr. Olney's request would seem to imply that these two judges might break away from the old rule of the court to sustain its own precedents and vote to declare the present law unconstitutional. This is believed by many to be Mr. Olney's object.

If this supposition regarding the present object.

If this supposition regarding the present disposition of the two justices be correct, the opinion of Justice Jackson would probably determine the result.

NEW YORK, April 19.—United States Dis trict Attorney R. B. Glenn of North Carolina came to this city about ten days ago, it is said, in search of evidence to be brought before the Federal Grand-jury of North Carolina in an effort to indict the American trust law. Mr. Glenn's presence here was known to very few persons. The American Tobacco Co. has been keeping a close watch on his movements for months. Its officers here were informed by wire that Mr. Glenn had gone to Washington. Representatives of the trust at the capital learned the report that he had been in consultation with United States Attorney-General Olney, and the news alarmed the Cigarette Trust's officers in this city. It is said that District Attirney Glenn came to New York under the direction of Attorney-General Olney, and at his personal solicitation. Sixty Business Houses in Ard more, I. T., Now in Ashes.

THE LOSS MAY BE $650,000.

Federal Court-House and Masonic Temple Among the Buildings Burned.

ARDMORE, I. T., April 19.-The main business portion of Ardmore, for six solid blocks on Caddo street, north and south of Main street, were destroyed by fire about so'clock this morning. Sixty business house were entirely destroyed. The loss will aggregate $650,000. The United States Court and jail were also destroyed. The prison ers were transferred to the Raptist Church where they are now under guard. The heat was so intense the vault and safe in the Court-house were cracked, and the court records partly destroyed. The Ma-sonic Temple were also burned, and families are camping in the street. A Mr. Neil was breast that she can not recover.

Ardmore has been one of the most flourishing cities in the Territory. It has a population of 4,000. It is in the Chickasaw Nation on the Texas, Gulf, Colorado and Sapta Fe Railroad.

ONE FIREMAN KILLED.

Several Others Injured in New York by Falling Walls.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., April 19.-The fir cupled by the New York Biscuit Company was not gotten under control until 3 o'clo this morning. Just where the fire originated is not definitely known, but it is suppos to have been in the engine room.

The firemen could not reach the dwelling through the narrow alleyway, and had to which adjoined the cracker bakery. While working in Front street, at the corner of Augusta Court, one of the side walls of the burning bakery fell and several firemen were injured, one fireman, William Sergeant of Engine Company No. 32, so badly that he died at 10.45 this morning in the hospital where he had been taken after he had been hit by the falling bricks and burning timbers. The injuries of the other firemen were not so serious and they will be able to leave the hospital in a few days.

The entire loss will foot up nearly $300,000. The New York Biscuit Company is the heavlest loser, placing its loss on stock and machinery at $250,000. Walter G. Wilson, the owner of the buildings, loses $30,000; William Dreydoppel, the soap manufacturer, whose building adjoins the destroyed structure, loses $2,000 or $3,000 and between $5,000 and $8,000 damage was done to numerous tenements in the rear. working in Front street, at the corner

This is the fifth time within fifteen years that the building has been on fire. In 1879 it was entirely destroyed. A stock company was then organized with W. L. Wilson at the head of the concern. Since then there have been three fires in the bakery, but not until this morning has the destruction been complete.

Charles Stewart Parnell's Mother Picked Up Badly Injured.

BORDENTOWN, N. J., April 19.—Mrs. Delia T. Parnell, who lives at Ironside, overlooking the Delaware River near here, was found bleeding and unconscious late last night by Charles Casey, son of the farmer who has charge of the farm at Ironside. While descending a hill which marks the boundary of the property formerly occupied by Mrs. Parnell's father, young Casey heard the moans of some one apparently in distress. Hurrying to the spot from which the sound came he found Mrs. Parnell lying beside the fence with her face covered with blood. By her side were two small pieces of board, a piece of fence paling about three feet long, and a brick. Help was obtained and she was carried to the house of Farmer Casey. Dr. W. H. Shipps who was hastily summoned, made an examination and found that besides several bruises about the face the woman had a lacerated wound on the right side of the head. Mrs. Parnell is unconscious and because of her advanced age her condition is critical. The authorities are unable to determine whether she was assaulted or fell and received her injuries. Her handbag was found alongside the railroad track near by, with her pocketbook missing and papers scattered in all directions. This circumstance lends an active probability to the theory that she was brutally assaulted and robbed and have sent telegrams to all the nearby cities and towns asking that a lookout be kept for a man of medium helght with smooth face, wearing a light overcoat and derby hat, who was seen in the vicinity about the time the assault is believed to have been committed.

After the evidence in the case had been presented, a list of the charges of gross indecency against Wilde was read, and he was sasked by the magistrate if he wished to say anything in reply. Wilde answered, "Not at present."

Alfred Taylor was then charged with attempting to perpetrate an abominable crime, and both prisoners were committed for trial. Counsel on behalf of Wilde made an application for ball, but the presiding magistrate replied that in his opinion the offense was so grave and he considered the evidence so serious that ball could not be allowed.

Some one either threw or batted a wild ball, and, without warning, it struck Emil just behind the right ear. It knocked him down and hurt him badly, but he got on to his feet again. He felt so sick that his teacher, Miss King, sent him home. She offered to send one of the boys with him, but he declined and started off alone.

His father's house is about a half mile from the school and this he reached in safety. His father, frightened at the boy's appearance, put him into his wagon and hurried him over to Dr. Pittman's, who prescribed for him. On the way home he became unconscious and shortly after his arrival there died.

While his death was due to accident, greater care will hereafter be exercised over the boys at the school in play.

FOR CLEVELAND TO ANSWER. Some Very Plain Questions Put by

Bryan of Nebraska. OMAHA, Neb., April 18.-Editor and ex-Congressman Bryan is out with an oper letter to Mr. Cleveland in which he puts the letter to Mr. Cleveland in which he puts the following pertinent questions to the President:

"What do you mean by the phrase, 'sound money?' In your letter you make frequent use of that and kindred phrases. In fact, in the course of your letter you speak three times of 'sound money,' twice of a 'safe currency,' once of a 'sound currency,' once of a 'safe and gundent financial ideas,' and once of 'wholesale financial doctrine.' You also speak of 'debased currency,' once of a 'degenerated currency,' and once of 'cheap money.' Now, everybody favors 'sound money,' or what you consider 'cheap money.' Now, everybody favors 'sound money' and a 'safe currency, and a plain and simple statement of what you mean by these euphonious and universally admired phrases might dispel the war clouds and make a 'line of battle' unnecessary. If by 'sound money' you mean a gold standard, why did you avoid the use of the word 'gold' in your letter? If by 'safe money' you mean bimetallism, why did you avoid the use of the word 'bimetallism' in your letter?

"Your opponents favor the free and unlimited coinage of sliver bullion into dollars, each containing '21.8 grains of standard gold. Are you in favor of this? Your opponents are in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of sliver bullion into dollars, each containing '12.8 grains of standard silver. Are you in favor of this? If not, are you in favor of the free coinage of sliver bullion into dollars, each containing '12.6 grains of standard silver. Are you in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of sliver bullion into dollars, each containing '12.6 grains of standard silver. Are you in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of sliver bullion into dollars of any size? If not, ar what charge, if any, would you make for coinage?

"Is the failure of the old gold standard advocates to define their purposes and defend their financial system due to lack of knowledge of the subject or to an unwillingness to let the people know what they intend? If the 'proprieties' of your 'official place oblige you to forego the enjoyment,' which you would derive from the writing of another letter explaining your last letter and defining your position on the financial question, please designate some one who has authority to speak for you so the people may be 'afforded an intelligent opportunity,' as you suggest, to study and decide this now paramount question."

Enthusiastic Meeting of Promoters at Chatsworth Hall.

AN ORGANIZATION EFFECTED.

The Movement Placed Upon a Practical Basis and Now in Shape to Be Pushed to Success.

Chatsworth Hall, Thursday night, inaugurated the "Detroit Plan" with an enthusiasm marking few projects in St. Louis. Gentlemen were present whose energy and munificence assure the sinews for putting the plan into operation. Representatives of the laboring element, and some of those whose burden of care will be lightened by the philanthropic enterprise were there too Among those present were Judge John Grether, Rev. J. W. Caldwell, John F. Ford.

Col. C. H. Jones, Rabbi Sale, W. B. Addington, T. S. Hayes, Dr. W. W. Boyd, L. P. Custer, Rev. Ben Decering, S. L. Moser, Joseph Forshaw, B. C. Keeler, Dr. Louis Houch, Richard O. Barrett, J. J. McCann and Sheridan Webster.

After the meeting had been called to order a letter from Mr. Marcus Bernheimer was read, saying:

"I am extremely sorry that' I am unexpectedly but unavoidably prevented from attending the meeting in the interest of furthering the 'Detroit Plan' in our city. I trust, however, we will have a well-attended meeting and that you will set on foot this worthy plan. Please consider me 'with you,' and place me or my services wherever you may see fit. I shall gladly aid all in my power.

"Very truly yours,

"MARCUS BERNHEIMER."

There was anticipatory applause when Judge John Grether announced from the platform that the business of the meeting would proceed at once. A permanent organization having been effected by the election of Mr. Geo. C. Worth, Secretary, Judge Grether, who was named as Fresident, stated the next order would be an explanation of the objects of the meeting. He called upon Col. Charles H. Jones to outline the "Detroit Plan."

"I am here, Mr. Chairman and gentlemen," began Col. Jones, as the applause subsided, "merely as a spectator, and there are gentlemen better prepared to explain the plan it is intended to indorse. This audience is called together by the interest felt in this project by each individual in it. "Mayor Pingree of Detroit has been called almost everything, from a crank to an Anarchist. I must confess that those epithets first commanded my respect for him. First, because to do anything with any other than the common object of piling up money, is to be called a crank, and second, because I have observed that it is difficult now to be a Christian without being called an Anarchist. Whatever Mayor Pingree's future may be, he will ever be entitled to fame as the originator of what has come to be known as the 'Detroit Pian.' This is a proposition to place at the disposal of the worthy poor unoccupied town lots for cultivation. It contemplates the tender, by real estate owners, of land that is lying useless upon which persons, who posal of the worthy poor unoccupied town lots for cultivation. It contemplates the tender, by real estate owners, of land that is lying useless upon which persons, who would otherwise be unemployed, may raise potatoes and other vegetables and thereby, without the odium of charity, and merely with the help of an outstretched hand, become self-supporting and self-dependent. "Detroit is the only city in which the plan has been practically tried. The results there last summer were little short of amazing. has been practically tried. The results there last summer were little short of amazing. I have had some correspondence upon the subject, especially with Capt. Gardiner, who combined humanitarian and practical methods in the way of carrying the project to success, and achieved the greatest possibilities. The plan was inaugurated in Detroit by the Mayor calling the people together last May. In spite of the late start, and the summer that followed, which was unfavorable as well, with its drouth and other drawbacks, people suspected of having no inclination whatever of helping themselves, were enabled to raise $47,000 worth of produce."

Here there was an interruption of surprise from those present.

"And $60 families were sustained by this means," resumed the speaker. "In Detroit there was much discontent at the time the plan was incepted, on account of the problem of the unemployed. By means of this plan the narrow border land dividing the indepandent and self-helpful poor and those who cannot help themselves without aid, was bridged. Impressed with the success of the movement at Detroit, other cities have taken hold of it. The Mayor of New York, in spite of Tammany Hall on one side and Tom Platt on the other, has found time to take it up. Across the river, on Long Island, I am told, 300 acres have been plowed and are now "sady for cultivation, and to-day, especially if it has been as pleasant a day in New York as this, 300 men have been at work planting on this fallow. Up to four or five day ago, 2.5 Thots had been placed at the disposal of the committee. I think that I can safely state that the trops in New York this year will be unusually heavy.

"Here in St. Louis the plan has attracted the attention of a certain number of citizens. I have participated to some extent myself and have talked with many persons in regard to it. I am satisfied that there is no lack of interest. If this meeting will initiate the movement simply by forming the nucleus of an executive committee to take the matter in hand, the enterpr then Mr. Richard A. Barreit arose with an Mr. of substantial assistance.

This poor are always among us," he said. Of course the halt, the lame and the blind nust be cared for without effort on their part in return. But the able-bodied should work and will work, once the opportunity is offered. I have five or six acres of land for some one to cuitivate, that has never been couched by plow, and a now tender it for use in carrying out this project.

Mr. Barreit's offer, was greeted with a storm of applause.

Mr. Sheridan Webster suggested that in carrying out the plan, the projectors should so to those who are to benefit by it.

"We should have the whole management as representative as possible from above and as much as possible from above and as much as possible from below. I would suggest that we invite the labor unions to send one representative each, and the churches to cach send a representative, these to act as an advisory committee to elect an executive committee."

Mr. Webster's suggestion was opposed by representatives of the labor element present. Col. Jones explained that his suggestion was not for a committee that would be anything more than an executive committee to carry into effect the details of the plan.

"It was my idea," said Col. Jones, "that the committee could not go far before it would see the necessity of putting itself into amicable relations with the unions and the churches. There is no necessity of an advisory committee will be composed of every man, woman and child interested and the committee would be treacherous to its trust, if it failed to hear them."

Motion for Organization.

MOTION FOR ORGANIZATION. Col. Jones moved that the chair appoint ttee of three as a nucleus of a coma committee of three as a nucleus of a committee of nine to be known as the "Executice Committee of the Detroit Plan in St. Louis," the three named to choose six others. He hoped one at least would be distinctively a representative of the workingmen; this committee to organize by electing a permanent Chairman, Secretary and Treasurer. "Especially a Treasurer," said Col. Jones. This committee should be instructed to apply to real estate owners and the charitably inclined, first for the donation of the use of land; second for implements and third for subscriptions to be legitimately expended in carrying out the plan." plan."

for the work was read and filed with the Secretary.

Col. Jones' motion was then seconded by Mr. B. C. Keeler and Mr. Ben Deering. The latter in seconding the motion stated that there are two parties to the enterprise, those who are willing to donate land and those who have the ability and the willingness to cultivate the land. "The first class is large, and there is enough vacant land here to support every poor family in St. Louis," Mr. Deering continued. "But we must keep every organization out of it. Let this be the one movement of the masses. Give the people a chance to do for themselves and see how they will appreciate it."

it." It strikes me that all we need now are the seeds and the people to use them," said Mr. J. J. McCann, from another part of the hall. "We already have enough land to employ twelve families, donated right here by Mr. Barrett and implements to till it, offered by Mansur-Tebbetts. I will donate a bushel of seeds, and I think the 'Detroit plan' may be said to be already a success in St. Louis."

At the conclusion of Mr. McCann's offer the motion for the appointment of three gentlemen by the chair was carried unaniously.

Mr. Webster suggested Mr. W. D. Addington, but that gentleman withdrew and named Mr. Henry Fairback, the well-known contractor.

Dr. Caldwell had already suggested Col. Jones, but the latter stated that he would give all the assistance to the plan in his power, anyway, and requested to be excused. Chairman Grether insisted upon Col. Jones accepting, but that gentleman stated that he thought the plan should be of the entire community and did not believe that the committee, in asking the assistance of all the newspapers, should be fettered by the idea that one paper had superseded all the others.

the idea that one paper had superseded all the others.

In order that the appointments might be made after due deliberation, Chairman Grether requested a few days' time in making the selections. He will announce the three members of the committee later. During the progress of the meeting the question was asked how the people benefited by the plan are to subsist while awaiting the garnering of the crops. The explanation was made that the Detroit Plan is not intended to supersede all charities, but to supplement them until it has rendered the impoverished capable of helping themselves.

When the meeting adjourned at 10 o'clock Mr. B. C. Keeler turned over to the Secretary a letter from Mr. F. A. Koch, which he had unfortunately forgotten before, tendering the use of forty-five feet of ground on the south side of Cook avenue, lust west of Vandeventer avenue.

Rabbi Sale, who was in attendance early in the evening, was compelled by an engagement to withdraw. Before doing so he expressed himself as most heartly in favor of the Detroit Plan and offered a vacant lot owned by him for use in furtherance of the plan.

SLUMPED A LITTLE.

Oil Takes a Drop From Thursday's Closing Prices.

BURG, Pa., April 19.-Oil took an other slump this morning and after open-ing at $2.40 it went down to $2.20 bid inside of twenty minutes. The decline was gradual and was caused by the announcement that balances 20 cents to $2.40. Oil recovered five points and at 10:30 stood $2.25 bid for May options. Cash oil sold for $2.25. There was scarcely any trading on the Exchange, buyers being afraid and holders waiting for a revival.

for the Grand-jury Without Bail.

Lena Morris and Mabel Lewis, the alleged murderers of Cora Poole, were held for the grand jury without bail by Judge Murphy, in the Court of Criminal Correction, Friday morning.

The State made a strong case. Ella Fox, a colored woman, who saw the shooting, told a straightforward story of the cold-blooded manner in which the deed was planned and executed. Lena Morris, who did the shooting, carried the revolver concealed under her arms, which were folded across her breast.

Will Taily testified to meeting the two women, both of whom told him they were on their way to Cora Poole's house to kill her. They showed him the weapon with which they proposed to murder her. He went to the house to notify the Poole woman they were coming to kill her.

The attorney for the defense made a plea for the release of Mabel Lewis on the ground that she had no hand in the murder. The court overruled the motion, stating that while she did not actually fire the fatal shot, she had taken an active part, and declared her intention to kill Cora Poole.

BY HYPNOTISM

Nettie Dowd Is Alleged to Have Been

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 19.-Hypno SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 18.—Hypnotism was the influence that, it is claimed, led preity Nettie Dowd, a 15-year-old lass, to leave the comfortable old house on her father's ranch, down by the sea, near Monterey, and follow bad and notorious Annie Jackson to this city.

The git says that last summer, while visiting Monterey, she met Annie Jackson, was working as a servant in a family. The woman haked her to come to San Francisco, but she refused. About six weeks ago she met Annie Jackson in Monterey and without knowing just how it happened, accompanied her to the city. The girl's parents notified the police, and an officer arrested the girl in a lodging house. She was committed to the Resoue Home, pending the arrival of her parents.

ANOTHER BIG CLAIM.

The bill introduced by Councilman Hagan Thursday, by which the city is asked to buy the fee to the property on which Engine House No. 3 has stood for twenty years, was a surprise to City Hall officials, and re-sembles the Smith heirs' claim to the new City Hall site.

was a surprise to City Hall officials, and resembles the Smith heirs' ciaim to the new City Hall site.

The lot involved, and for which $13,180 is asked, is a triangular lot at the junction of South Broadway and Miami streets. It lies 185 feet on Broadway, 176 feet on Miami, 60 feet 3 inches on Salena street, and runs down to a point at the junction of Braodway and Miami. It contains 5,270 square feet. At the ruling price of property in that neighboring having a uniform depth, if would be worth less than £,500 on a basis of $0.cents a square foot.

Ellhu H. Shepard dedicated the property to the city May 17, 1850. The consideration was $1. In the deed he announced himself a Free Trader, and it was a condition that, within one year, a market, to be known as the "Shepard Free Market,", was to be erected by the city, to which all who sold wholesome meats, vegetables and fowls were to have access. It was provided that if the city did not erect a market house within one year any responsible company which might be formed should be permitted to occupy the property without paying more than $1 a year rent, provided it erected a market house for the sale of meat, vegetables and fowls.

The city did not act on the provisions of the deed for four years, which was itself a violation of the terms, but the donor claimed no rights. By ordinance approved March 25, 1864, the city engineer was directed to cause a market house to be erected at a cost of $1,550. This was done, and it was known as the Shepard Market until 1874. It was never a success as a market. There was no demand for a market at that place, which was then a suburb. In 1874 there were only four or five stalls, and only one of them was occupied. The city was getting no rental from it, and it was decided to turn the market house into an engine house.

By an ordinance approved July 7, 1874, the change was authorized and section 2 of the former ordinance was repealed. The engine house was built, and has been in use ever since.

It is regarded as strange that the Municipal Assembly should have thus plainly diverted the uses of the property without having the title quieted.

Mr. Gabel, Assistant Comptroller, recollects calling attention to this at the time, and he has a recollection that he was told that the title had been quieted. This was over twenty years ago, and his recollection is not clear. If any paper was signed it should be on record in the Recorder of Deeds' office.

For twenty-one years no question has been raised as to the city's title. Mr. Shepard has been dead about twenty-five years. Mrs. D. Robert Barclay is his gaughter and Judge Shepard Barclay is his grandson.

The legal question presented is that of the statute of limitations. Ordinarily the statute and the statute of limitations and indisputable title applies except where there are minor heirs, or where a trust is diverted. But in this case the trust was diverted twenty-one years ago, and the question at issue is whether or not the statute of limitation applies on the ground that adverse possession began twenty-one years go, when the trust was first diverted. City Counselor Marshal says he is not sure that the statute of limitations under such conditions has ever been raised, and was not ready to give any opinion until he looked further into the case.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 19.—Officials and diplomats regard the answer of Lord Kimberly to Moaragus as bringing the British-Nicaragus question to a critical stage. It is considered settled that Great British will now proceed to collect her debt. The British mode of settlen against Nicaragus, it is believed, will be as aircady intimated, a "pacific blockade" of all Nicaragus, ports, thus crippling the local commerce, but not interfering with the United States or other foreign commerce. The latest official information here shows that Great British sun at once bring to bear two formidable fleets for blockading purposes, one on the Padific side and the other on the Atlantic Coast of Nicaragus. The two fleets—nineteen ships in all—are variously disposed, but all would be rendezvoused for a demonstration of force. The extent of the fleets indicates the preparations for emergencies Great Britain always maintains.

JOHN BULL'S GREED.

Venezuela Directs Notice to His Aggression.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 19.—There is most interesting history of the new ima most interesting history of the new important controversy between Great Britain and Venezuela over the boundary line contained in the published diplomatic correspondence of the State Department for the last year.

The critical phase which the case has now assumed is shown by the last published letter from the Venezuelan Foreign Minister to United States Minister Haselton, dated Dec. 7, last. He recounts preceding acts of aggression on the part of the British, and then calls attention to the fact that the British were projecting a lane or road to connect the upper Barima with the Cuyuni, passing through the contrested territory. The Venezuelan Government, he says, has already served notice on the British Government that this would without doubt produce a collision with the Venezuelan authorities in that region.

The letter concludes: The matter which I have explained to your Excellency is almost as important to the United States as to Venezuela herself. The control by England of the entrance to the mouth of our great fluvial artery and of some of its tributaries, would expose to constant peril the industry and commerce of a large portion of the new world, would, in fact, bring into ridicule the famous and salutary Monroe doctrine, and would establish abusive practices which, in the end, might make iliusive for some American countries their own political entity as free and independent States. I most sincerely ask that your Excellency will be pleased to interpret the foregoing ideas to the Government of the United States."

The Dace girls, Cassie and Hattle, occupied seats behind the pair. Cassie has no kindly feeling for Miss Rieste and said rude things about Emma's new spring bonnet. Harding stood the girls chafing for a time, then turned around and deliberately slapped Cassie Dace in the face. TO EAT THE STEWARD.

An Ugly Negro Creates a Panic at the Union Club.

The swell South Bide Union Club, at Jefferson and Lafayette avenues, came near being the scene of a shooting scrape Thursday night. Too much whisky inside a colored ex-waiter was the cause of it. He blew into the club house with a handsome jag, an ugly temper and a gun and made thinge quite lively for both attendants and members.

W. H. Saunders is the name of the waiter. He formerly worked at the club, but owing to his eagerness to absorb all the liquor out in that section of the city he failed to get along well with Manager Smith, who has charge of the club's affairs. He was, therefore, fired.

Thursday afternoon he came back and demanded $10 of Smith, which he said was due him. Smith refused to pay him. They clashed and Saunders got out his gun, threatening to shoot and then eat everybody about the place. Two of the members, not caring to have such a fate befall them, took a hand in the affray.

"Put a hole through him," shouted one member to Smith.

But Smith had his hands full preventing a bail being put through his own corpus. Perhaps there might have been a bit of daylight let in, but two of the club members mustered up courage enough to come to his assistance and the obstreperous fellow was thrown down the front steps.

He persisted in returning to the assualt, and but for the appearance of several policemen who had been sent for from the Lafayette Park Station, might have accomplished his barbaric purpose of eating several human beings. But as soon as he caught sight of the bluecoats his rage evaporated and he fied.

He has not yet been arrested and Smith does not know whether or not he will get a warrant, as the club members are desirous of having the affair hushed up.

The police made no report about it.

WHAT PEACE BRINGS.

Great Results to Flow From the Treaty Between China and Japan. NEW YORK, April 19.-A special dispate to the World from Washington says: Russis was fully aware of and gives secret but to the World from Washington says: Russia was fully awaré of and gives secret but hearty approval to the conditions for peace exacted by Japan. This is vouched for on the very best authority in this country. An agreement between Russia and Japan, said to have existed from the outbreak of the war, included a promise that Russia should have access to the sea for its great Trans-Siberian Railway.

Every step Japan has taken is said to have been with the knowledge and approval of the Czar and, notwithstanding misleading dispatches from St. Petersburg as to the possibility of that Government being displeased, it is maintained that if any other European Power undertakes to prevent the carrying out of Japan's programme Russia will stand at Japan's abok. China, it is asserted, will under the conditions agree upon the throwing open to civilization over a thousand square miles of the richest territory in the empire, having a population of over 200,000,000, now practically kept from intercourse with the outside world. Six closed cities, the largest in the empire, are also to be thrown open and the aggregate rivers, the Yang-Tse-Klang, Canton and Shanghai, are to be free to the commerce of the globe. It is further said that China has promised to consent to extensive river and harbor improvements, including the dredging of these rivers for hundreds of miles, so that ships of the deepest draught can reach unknown inland cities and markets.

The understanding here is that the ships and citisens of all nations will have equal privileges and be treated with equal fairness. There is to be no restriction upon the importation of foreign machinery, but the whole world is to be invited to plant its industries in China and assist in developing her enormous resources.

After the ratification of the treaty Japanses will a stational in Decides to Make No Further Inquiry as to His Deputies.

IS TIRED OF HIS NOTORIETY.

Judges May Take Up the Matter of Official Venality in General Term to Protect Their Courts.

The exposure by the Post-Dispatch of venality in the operation of the Circuit Court jury system will probably result in its radical revision by the circuit judges in general term. A number of the judges are they are now at the mercy of their deputies they are now at the mercy of their deputies so far as the practices exposed are concerned, and their desire for an improvement will probably be strengthened by the fact that Sheriff Henry Troil announced Friday that he had dropped the entire matter. "Well, what do you want now?" was the sheriff's salutation, as a Post-Dispatch reporter entered his office Friday morning. "What have you accomplished in the five lays you have been investigating the jury scandal?" he was asked.
"Well, I have decided to drop the matter," Capt. Troil replied.
"Have you seen any witnesses?"

"Well, I have decided to drop the matter," Capt. Troll repiled.
"Have you seen any witnesses?"
"No, I have not. But I have a way of my own in making inquiries, and I have decided that all my deputies are all right."
"How did you make your inquiries?"
"I won't tell you. I don't intend to discuss the matter any more. I don't want any more newspaper notoriety."
"Well, he's still sick."
"Well, he's still sick."
When Judge P. R. Flitcraft was told of Capt. Troll's latest stand, he responded:
"Well, my court is all right you know, now. I don't see what further I should do. I have not discussed the matter with any of the other Judges, I suppose if Sheriff Troll does not discharge Vogt the Judges will object to his being carried on the pay rolls, provided it is shown to their satisfaction that he is guilty. But I understand that Capt. Troll has stated he will discharge Vogt, who is just now seriously ill."
The reporter asked Judge Flitcraft about the projected change in the system as now established.
"The abuse," said he, "grows out of the fact that the Judges, of the Circuit Coourt have been saving the city and State thousands of dollars. Instead of forty jurors for each room a much less number is impannelled, and those who are not needed are sent to other court-rooms. Of course, we cannot keep track of them under such circumstances.
"Now, if the jurors could all be kept in

"Now, if the jurors could all be kept in one room under the supervision of one responsible man, I suppose the abuse would be prevented without the necessity of each court being furnished forty jurors at a great expense. I have not considered this plan very thoroughly, however, and do not care to express my opinion of it."

When the Judges meet at the next general term of court, it is understood this matter will be taken up. It is also not improbable than an investigation will be instituted.

matter will be taken up. It is also not improbable than an investigation will be instituted.

If Sheriff Troll needs corroborative evidence of Deputy Edward Vogt's guilt of bribe receiving in addition to what has alreadly been presented by the Post-Dispatch he can secure it from Mr. Robert A. Cartwright of A. Frankenthal & Co., 819 Washington avenue. Mr. Cartwright was summoned for jury duty in Judge Flitcraft's court on the same day as the gentlemen who have already made their statements through the Post-Dispatch. Mr. Cartwright was interested in the Aloe insurance case on trial the entire week in courtroom No. 2. He was content, therefore, to remain. He tells an interesting story, especially in connection with the experience of Mr. Proskauer, detailed in Tuesday's Post-Dispatch. "After I had reported at courtroom No. 2," states Mr. Cartwright, "this man Vogt came to me and asked if I were not anxious to get off. I told him no, that I was perfectly willing to remain as long as required. Then he went away. That was all he said.

"You know Mr. Proskauer was fined $2 by Judge Flitcraft on the deputy's representation. He was about to expose Vogt then and there, but was prevented, Lawyer Jonas stepping up to the Judge and making statements which led to the remitting of the fine.

"Well, Vogt came over to where I was sitting after that and I said, 'Look here Proskauer was going to expose you, and report the proposition you made to him, if he had not been prevented.'

"I don't give a continental what he tells,'
was Vogt's reply.
"Then he mumbled something which I understood to be, "I know my business,' and who is noted for the orientally was not was

Then he mumbled something which inderstood to be, 'I know my business,' and walked away.'

The dishonest practices of Deputy Edward Vogt prove to have been no novelty at the Court-house. In all the discussions at the Court-house of the exposure in the Sunday Post-Dispatch of the venality of Vogt, no surprise has been expressed that such bribery existed. Rather there has been wonder and consternation that Vogt has been found out.

The practice of holding up jurors for the amount of their fees, has been carried on according to the admissions of those who know, for the past twenty-five years. It has been handed down as a fat, but dishonest legacy, and each successive corps of court deputies has added to and improved upon the system.

of court deputies has added to and improved upon the system.

Thus it is that appointments as deputy sheriffs are in great demand. Political workers, holding positions which pay $100 per month, or more, have abandoned them for the $50 per month job of deputy sheriff. The rake-off has been assured, and sufficient to more than offset the difference between the legitimate emoluments of the position abandoned and the new one.

There is absolutely no check upon the deputy, unless, as in the case of Vogt, he chances to propose his contemptible scheme to some citizen whose honesty is above represch.

to some citizen whose nonesty is above reproach.

Each court deputy is furnished with a jury list whenever a new venire is summoned. The Jury Commissioner also furnishes a duplicate list to each Judge. While the deputy is calling the jurors, the Judge is, presumably, following him on his own list. There are many matters to distract a Judge's attention, and even if there occurs a discrepancy between the list as read by the deputy and that in the hands of the Judge, it is reasonable for the latter to presume that the omission was merely an oversight.

Judge, it is reasonable to the presume that the omission was merely an oversight.

Accordingly, it has been perfectly safe for the deputy, in calling the jurors, to skip the names of those who have agreed to pay him for immunity. This has been the customary method of the deputies in carrying out their agreements. At the end of the week the names of such jurors as have not been excused by the court, are sent to the office of the Circuit Clerk by the deputies as having been in attendance for a certain number of days, and so entitled to free. After that the collection and division of the apolis is an easy matter.

No one but the deputy sheriff knows who of the entire list have really attended court during the required period and are justly entitled to payment.

Sequel to an Interesting Romance.

The marriage of Henry Grote, Secretary of the Edward Westen Tea and Spice Co., to Helen Symons of 3612 Palm street, Wednesday, sister of his dead wife, is the sequel to an interesting chain of events in Mr. Grote's life. In 1835 he shot the sweetheart of his present wife, Fred C. Behrens, for falsely accusing him of immorality in order to break off his engagement with Mary Bymons. For this he was sent to the penitentiary for two years. A few days before the trial he married Mary. Four months after his commitment he was pardoned by Gov. Francis. Two months ago his wife died and he chose for his second companion in life ner sister, Helen.

tions between Mayor Walbridge and Mr. Filley, on questions of municipal patronage, comes the statement that Mr. Filley's refusal of appointment to the Street Commissionership was based on his disinclination to leave the organization of his party in the State in its present incomplete condition. This informant states that he was at the City Hall last Tuesday about noon, when the Mayor's messenger departed for Filley's house with the final tender, and was there when he came back.

He professes to know that both tender and refusal were in good faith. He says, furthermore, that before inditing his reply, Mr. Filley took counsel of several friends, and that while he admitted that the place had an attraction for him, as affording him opportunity to place some of the party workers whom he felt were not to be otherwise cared for, he was loth to undertake its duties, in addition to those already devolving upon him as the recognized leader of the party in Missouri.

It was suggested to Mr. Filley, while the subject was under consideration for the last time, that if he accepted the place it need not occupy all his time; but he replied that if he accepted the place at all, he would fill it in the manner contemplated and directed by the charter and ordinances of the city. Mr. Filley also stated that he did not believe his strength to be equal to the double task of filling such a place and looking after the organization in the State. Finally, somewhat against the views of those with whom he consulted, Mr. Filley reached the conclusion that he could not discharge, with satisfaction, to himself, at least, the duties of Street Commissioner and chief organizer of his party, and that, as the latter was the more important work of the two, he would continue in it.

MAYOR WALBRIDGE'S ADVISERS. How the Slate so Disappointing to the Push Was Selected.

"Who were the Mayor's principal advisers in the appointment of the numerous 'unknowns' to important places in the Municiknowns' to important places in the Municipal Government?" repeated a Filley counselor, on being prodded for some whys and wherefores not yet made clear to the "push." "Ill tell, you, Max Starkioff named the three doctors who were appointed over the City Hospital, Insane Asylum and Female Hospital, of whom one, Dr. Blickhahn, served under Dr. Dudley in the Health office during a Democratic administration; and another, Dr. H. S. Crossem, is elevated from a position as assistant physician at the Insane Asylum at $25 a month and board to be the head of the Female Hospital. Starkioff also appointed Charles J. Price Boller Inspector. Starkioff and Thomas Niedringhaus together appointed Milner, and Colby was one of McMath's importations to the sewer department. "Now about the Niedringhaus influence. Do you know what that means? It means vitrified clay brick will take a boom in street work in the next year. It will be used for alley paving, guttering and sidewalks to an extent never dreamed of in this town before. Milner and Colby will be but figure heads in the Board of Public Improvements. Watch and see how Niedringhaus and McMath boom vitrified clay brick. But it's a big jump for Milner-from 3100 a month to $5,000 a year."

"I want to call your attention to another thing," continued the same kicker, after an appropriate pause between topics. "The only three prominent places that were not awarded to sliks or civil service reformers were those that such folk would not have the jail, the Work House and the Poor House. The Mayor had to find common people for these places. There's Swingley, who is now driving a hose reel, made Chief of the Fire Department because the Mayor has known him ever since he was in Council. Ridgeley, who married a daughter of Mr. Wiggins, is worth a half million, and lives half the time at Springfield, Ill. and who is noted for the or than for the accuracy of his views, advanced the theory that Filley and the Globe-Democrat had formed a hard-and-fast coalition. "You see how the Globe-Democrat is straining its tow-line for the State," he said, "and that not a word of protest has come from Filley about the sacrifice of his favorile, John Henry Pohlman. The only statement that has come from him is the official publication showing that he could have had the Street Commissionership on a silver plate. That is sufficient notification to the workers of the State that he has not been 'turned down' and such was the purpose in its publication. For the rest of his vindication, Filley will depend on the Globe-Democrat a year hence."

"But would Filley let all his workers be sacrificed?" than for the accuracy of his views, ad-

"But would Filley let all his workers be sacrificed?"

"They are not to be sacrificed. Perhaps John Henry Pohlman will not get anything, for it has already been shown that he has outlived his usefulness to Filley. But the most faithful workers will all be cared for. None that deserve recognition will get left. Filley is playing for the biggest stake of his life—a seat in the United States Senate—and it would be folly for him to discard such an influence for the satisfaction of paying a few small political debts. The paper, meanwhile, has the opportunity it has for years longed for, while Filley had no personal ambition, namely to run the local municipal machine with Silks of its own choosing."

Disagreements Over Apparatus Result in a Lively Wrangle. It looked for a time Friday night as if free-for-all fight might come of a wrangle over the comparative excellence of the sys-tems of heating and ventilation, which the members of the School Board Building Committee considered at their meeting last Committee considered at their meeting last night.

Directors Grawe and Kelly became so interested in one another that friends thought it wise to separate them.

The recommendations which the committee will make to the board are as follows: Ventilating and heating apparatus for the Columbia School, to the Missouri Steam Heating Co., at $6,189; Charless School, to Foss & Noble, at $6,584; Riddick School, to Branch Steam Heating Co., at $6,421, and to John Ramming, the Benton, at $6,421, and to John Ramming, the Benton, at $6,524, the Dumas, at $6,700, and the Froebel, at $5,840.

The bidders also seem to have a grievance. They were asked to make a deposit, when filing their bids, to insure the giving of a good bond guaranteeing that their apparatus would accomplish the work as required. Some say that awards were not made in accordance with the spirit of the advertisement asking for bids, and that the "lowest and best bidders" did hot get the contracts. It is claimed by the contractors that the furnishing of the bond was sufficient guarantee that their apparatus would do the work satisfastorily, and that unless the plans were faulty the contract should have gone to the lowest bidder.

COMPLAINT

Investors Along Union Boulevard After the Suburban.

SLOW RECONSTRUCTION.

Improved Property Kept Off the Market, It Is Alleged, by the Railroad's Perversity.

The stockholders of the Oakland Place Land Co., the Kingsbury Realty Co., Bell Place Land Co., the Westminster Place Land Co. will go before the new Board of Public Improvements, backed by the property-owners and residents in the neighborhood of Union boulevard, between Delma erty-owners and residents in the neighborhood of Union boulevard, between Delmar avenue and Forest Park, with a complaint against the St. Louis & Suburban railway.

For three months the road, it is said, has been reconstructing about seven blocks of double tracks. It is asserted that about two men are on the job, with poor prospects of ever finishing.

The work is not under the charter of the road, but a "special" transaction, arranged with the land companies when they commenced the improvement of Union avenue, Aug. 23 last. Under this arrangement the street railway claims it can take its own time. Hence the complaint.

E. P. Bell, of the Bell Place Realty Company, controlling 800 feet front on the boulevard, upon which $200,000 was recently expended for improvements, says that the work on the boulevard has met with one delay after another. The ordinance governing the improvement of Union avenue provided for a Telford street, twenty-five feet in width on each side of the grass strip, twenty-six feet wide, the entire width of the thoroughfare aggregating seventy-six feet. The center strip was to be used by the street car company's tracks. The rails were down, but not on the right grade, nor in the center. By a petition and other pressure the street railway company was wheeled into line, but is now wheeling along the line very slowly, it is alleged, and delaying the work of improvement of one of the finest outlets to Forest Park.

The large amount of money expended in the improvement of property fronting on the street, and the intentions to open the place to the public this summer, together with the street car company's alleged stand in the matter, has roused the investors.

Mr. Bell says the road should be compelled to put in a large force at work. "Labor is not scarce," he said, "and, by engaging 100 men for two weeks the work could be done at the same price as by engaging two men for about a year."

Construction of the Kirkwood Railway

Construction of the Kirkwood Railway Conditioned on the St. Louis and Kirkwood Railroad is now conditioned entirely on the establishing of a connection from the eastern terminus in Forest Park into the city. This is practically assured by the Lindeil extension. The Lindeil people have not as yet accepted their franchise, but it is not believed that they will refuse one so valuable.

Entrance into and passage through Forest Entrance into the statainment, and now they have this they are not likely to let it get away from them. Their exclusive right of way of one and one-half miles is also very valuable in connection with the franchise.

HALF A LOAF OR WO BREAD

"Gold monometallism," remarks the lo cal organ of Wall street, "discourages enterprise," but it adds, "silver monometellism would take from the workingman at first and for a long time about one , half his earnings."

The American people want neither gold monometallism nor silver monometallism, but bimetallism. They want the sound and stable money of the tion, gold and silver, minted on equal terms and circulating together, affording an honest and ample hard money basis

But accepting the Wall street organ's premises, the workingman would not hesitate in choosing between gold mono-metallism, which discourages enterprise, and silver monometallism, which for time reduces his wages by a rise in prices When enterprise is discourage trade stagnates thousands are thrown out of employment, and the wages of necessarily cut down by competition to starvation rates. On the other hand, although the wages of workingmen may rise as quickly as the prices of com modities, under silver monometallism would have plenty of work and the labor demand soon adjusts wages to prices. Accepting the predictions of the gold organ with regard to free silver coinage at their worst, the choice it offers is half a loaf under silver monometallism and no bread under gold monometallism. The workingman has had enough experience with the no-bread condition.

"THIS RULE HAS GOT TO GO."

Vice-President W. T. Anderson of the St. Louis National Bank speaks to the point when, in advocating the bankers' movement to have the bank arbitrary rule rescinded, he says: "This rule has got to go." But he states the case too mildly when he says "It is a back numbe rule and not in accord with the usually ogressive methods of St. Louis."

The Post-Dispatch has proved conclus ively by the evidence of local merchants and the letters of out-of-town merchant that the Clearing House rule is a positive detriment to St. Louis. It is driving trade away from the city by placing our merchants at a great disadvantage with their competitors. Purchasers decline to be mulcted in excessive charges for check when they can go to other cities and have their checks received at par. It is an embargo on St. Louis trade.

The bankers who want the rule rescinded are right in the contention that it is no part of the function of a clearing house to intervene between the banks and their customers. Each bank can take care of its own interests in the mat-

The rule is wrong in principle and oppressive in practice. The movement to rescind it should be vigorously pushed.

Next Sunday's Post-Dispatch will contain a variety and character of reading matter which no intelligent reader of th newspapers can afford to miss. Its colmns are to be beautifully illustrated and filled to overflowing with live, twen tieth century topics. The Sunday Post-Dispatch proposes to deserve at all times its immense popularity with all classes of people.

A BEGINNING MADE.

The attendance at the mass-meeting o itizens last night, called to inaugurate the Detroit plan in St. Louis, was not as large as it should have been, nor was t indicative of the general sentiment of approval of the movement.

But it was earnest and enthusiastic and succeeded in making a start toward the development and ultimate success of the plan.

It is of the highest importance that the Chairman announce his Com-mittee of Three as speedily as may be consistent with proper deliberation; that such committee promptly name the additional six, and that the whole committee of nine organize at the earliest possible noment. The season is rapidly advance ing and not one day must be lost in get ting down to practical work.

The Post-Dispatch is convinced that when the names of the Chairman, Treasurer and Secretary of the Executive Committee are announced there will be no difficulty in securing all that may be needed in the way of vacant city lots eeds, fertilizers and implements. The people are with the movement and are only waiting for an organization to be perfected to manifest their interest and nearty support.

WOMEN IN LEGISLATURES.

Mrs. Klock, one of the three member of the late Colorado Legislature, has been telling something of her experience in that body and incidentally gives her views of women's usefulness in public

"I think that women of mature age ound judgment and a decent amount of common sense can do considerable good in legislatures," she writes, "after they have learned something of routine work. I think I could assist now in the organization of a session with some de gree of intelligence. But one thing i ositive. I would never send a young and pretty woman to such a place. She yould have no show with so many foo nen around to flatter and cajole her into oting wrong." Mrs. Klock contends that she always voted right, from which it may be in-ferred that the "fool men" did not flatter Why they did not may also be in ferred-by ill-natured persons-from the bove quoted remarks. But the lady is certainly mistaken in thinking that pretty women legislators will be bamboozled by fool men. If a pretty woman has sense enough to ge herself elected to the Legislature she will soon discover-if she hasn't already learned it—that her comeliness is part of er political fortune, and why not use it to bamboozle the fool men? Of such women not one in ten would fall to use her advantages to the utmost in the legpetic game of hearts. She would have a troop of men ready to sell votes for miles and would mold legislation on the pattern of her own loveliness. No inducements would be strong enough to draw her followers away from her, for everybody knows it is sheer waste of time to follow a man who is following woman. She would be complete misress of the situation.

Yes, comely legislation and beautiful dministration, that dream of the Civil Service Reformers, are about to be real-The record of human infirmitie will close as it opened, with the manlike remark, "the woman did it."

THE CITY POOR AND FARM WORK.

Upon the theory that "a poor white an is as good as an Indian," Mr. Francis B. Livesey of Sykesville, Md., has begun to urge upon the country the establishnen of State Farms for the compulsors education of the poor in the details of farm work, to the end that the migration towards the cities may be turned about nd sent countrywards.

Mr. Livesey discovers that within the ast fourteen years our population has ncreased about 18,000,000 and that of this number 14,500,000 have gone to the cities and only 8,500,000 to the country. The cause for this vast disproportion he attributes to education—that kind of ducation which at once unfits boys and girls for farm work and sends them into the cities to starve or become the slaves of capital. And then he tells this story: re is a man named H. L. Powell a Grafton Center, N. H., at this minute who was a skilled mechanic in car shops. The confinement was breaking down his Lealth and that, together with the on hous industrial outlook, inspired him to seek his few acres two years ago. Although ignoran of country life and only half able to per form its duties, he hired his plowing done worked as he was able, raised poultry for market, and saved, and he now writes me that he is getting along finely, while his old comrades are starving in the city and walking the streets looking in vain fo work. This man was a car shop mechanic be it remembered, and thereby hangs in tale. It is this: What he did the men a an, Ill., could also have done and saved themselves the perils and losses o saved themselves the perils and losses of the last year's strike. Mr. Powell exactly represents them. None of them could have been less capable of successfully managing a little farm. What Mr. Powell did, each one of those having savings could also have done. But it is not to the interests of manufacturers, in their selfish view of pital instead of maintaining its independent and getting away from it.

The case of Mr. Powell may be exceptional only in the success of his first year's work in raising poultry, but it is undeniably true that industrious men with a small amount of capital can rear their families in health comfort and families in health, comfort and peace on a farm or garden patch when the chances are all against them in the

But it is a question whether State Farms would not eventually be harmful. Mr. Powell has demonstrated the ability of the average man to take care of him-self and it is this personal liberty and responsibility which is the glory of the American Republic. The Detroit plan of cultivating vacant city lots is neither compulsory nor designed to be educa-tional. It is a measure of temporary re-lief on the basis of personal effort. Pernanent State Farms, with a compulsory attachment, would be a form of pater institutions, and the educational work which such men as Mr. Livesey is doing is better calculated to acco lesired objects.

Congressman Ben T. Cable is to make his headquarters in Chicago and conduct from that point the campaign of the gold monometallists in Illinois. He has been Washington, in conference with the President, and enlisted members of the Cabinet and heads of bureaus for campaign work. He has been to New York where Wall street is presumably ready to open its barrel to defend its interests, Mr. Cable is not likely to be without the wherewithal to push his new campaign against Illinois Democrats.

The Post-Dispatch has discovered and ed evidence from reputable citizens that the system of relieving jurors service by bribery and cheating, of which Deputy Sheriff Vogt was proved guilty, is not confined to him and to Court-room No. 2. The practice extends to other court-rooms and other deputy sheriffs. The scandal cannot be wiped out by the dismissal of Vogt. The Judges and Sheriff Troll should institute a thorough investigation.

If John G. Carlisle is already being "roasted" by the free silver men in Kentucky, he is not so popular in his own State as has been supposed. His defeat in a senatorial race would be a crusher to the dear money interest. If the Kentucky Republicans had sense enough to make a free silver campaign against a Democratic goldite some of their boasts might be made good.

The Post-Dispatch is asked by a New York correspondent to state whether or not "they have paddling in the prisons in Missouri." Our answer to this is that Missouri is a civilized State. If Brockway's infamous brutalities had been perpetrated in a Missouri prison, he would before now have become an occupant

VIEWS OF LABOR MEN.

They Favor a Fellow Servant Bill lating Solely to Railroads.

The railroad corporations are responsi The railroad corporations are responsible for the advocacy of a "general" fellow-servant bill. A general bill is one that tycludes all operatives of dangerous machinery, and those engaged in hazardous employments. Such a measure would cover almost every important manufacturing industry, mining labor, and some kinds of farm work. Whenever, in the past, bills framed on this plan have been presented, the railroad corporations have been the first to bring to the attention of representatives of the other included industries the fact that their welfare was "menaced," and pressure was immediately brought to bear on the representatives of mining, manufacturing and even farming constituencies to defeat them. The plan was invariably successful, even where tampering with committees and with assembly employes for the delay and suppression of bills had failed. To learn how the labor unions feel about the relative value of railroad and general fellow-servant legisation, a number of officers of the most influential of these organizations, were asked:

"In view of the agitation throughout the State by the railroad corporation lobylists, of the demand for a "general" bill, and of their attempts to make it appear that wage-earners generally are demanding such a measure at the hands of the special session, would you be satisfied, for the present, with the enactment of a fellow-servant bill exclusively applicable to railroade?"

Many of those seen—and they were the men who had studied the subject most thoroughly—favored the passage of a bill applicable solely to railroad employes, realizing that an attempt to include other classes of employes was simply a lobby trick to defeat any and all legislation in the premises. Others, however, could not see the justice of this "class legislation," as they argued that all other workingmen were as much entitled to its benefits as railway employes. Their individual views follow:

"Our union has passed a resolution favoring the passage of the railway fellow-servant bill will be for the present for the advocacy of a "general" fellow-ser vant bill. A general bill is one that ip amended so as to include all classes of employes."

J. J. Hund, label officer of Cigarmakers'
Union, No. 44, said:
"I will be satisfied with the passage of a railroad fellow-servant bill if it will tend to help us later on. I think there are other workmen, however, who need protection as well as railroad employes."

F. E. Marlow, who is associated with President John J. Berghern of the Workingmen's Protective Union in the publication of the Union Record, a labor organ, said: "I belive that all attempts in the past to make fellow-servant bills general in their application were tricks of the lobby, which has understood perfectly that such an amendment would nullify the effects of the measure."

has understood perfectly that such an amendment would nullify the effects of the measure."

Bruno Reichert, Secretary of the German Typographical Union, also thought it would be well enough for the Legislature to pass a railroad employes' bill for the present. Charles Specht, Secretary of Cigarmakers' Union No. 44, said: "All employes are equally entitled to protection, and I think the fellow-servant bill that passes should include them all. The passage of a bill for the protection of railway employes alone would be class legislation, and that isn't right. If there be something in the laws of Missouri that prevents the passage of a general fellow-servant law. I think a particular one is better than none."

G. A. Hoehn, Secretary of the Commonwealth Federal Labor Union, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, said: "I think the Legislature ought to pass a fellow-servant, bill that would be general in its application. A miner, for instance, is as much entitled to protection as a fireman or engineer. Still, a railroad fellow-servant law would be better than none."

Soak a quarter of a pound of macaroons in a scant pint of milk; beat four eggs with half a cupful of sugar. Mix and beat all until smooth; then add the juice of two oranges and the grated rind of one. Pour in a buttered pudding pail, and boil steadily one hour. Serve with hard sauce.

As a rule it is well—and should be required—to avoid very positive patterns, such as large plaids, checks, wide stripes and much jet or other glittering trimming and much jeweiry. Sharp contrasts in materials, trimming or style of cut are a decided detriment to a pleasing portrait, and, as a rule, the tone of color should harmonize with the sitter's complexion and hair. Glistening silks are difficult to light well, as is any material which does not easily lend itself to soft folds. Dead luster silk, soft woolens, crapes, fleecy tissues and similar materials are always effective.

Funeral Flowers. At one time it was considered impossible of use any flowers for a funeral except hose which were white or lavender and urple. Nowadays, as gayly tinted blosoms are displayed as at any gay function, delicacy of taste would, however, indicate that the more unobtrusive the offering at uch a time the better.

Maple Sugar Frosting.

Add a little water to a cupful or a cupful and a half of maple sugar and set it on the stove until it is dissolved. Beat the white of an egg and pour the maple sugar, while it is yet warm, into it. Beat the mixture again and spread on the cake. Butterflies in Evidence.

Butterflies are placed wherever it is harmonious in the designs of spring and summer fashions. Some very smart gowns have the beautiful insects in point lace appliqued on. The Brussels factories made a specialty of these dainties; they are exquisite on a dark-hued satin or yelvet bodice. Others are cut from Irish or Empire lace, the threads plentifully sprinkled with cut jewels. Imported spring gowns for afternoon reception or carriage toilets have entire yokes of colored butterflies. Cut and Dried Gratitude.

Engraved cards can now be procured which have a formula for "thanks for kind inquiries," or for "thanks for their beautiful wedding gift," with a blank line for the insertion of the thankse's name. Such cut and dried gratitude as this may be permissible—as it is—in what is called good society, but the essence of it is vulgarity pure and simple.

Soaked Streets Worry Wheelmen. Soaked Streets Worry Wheelmen.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.
Why does not some enterprising citizen establish a boat-house at the corner of Grand avenue and Pine street? I am one of several hundred bicyclists who daily ride down Pine and Locust streets to the business portion of the city, and almost every morning I feel the need of a boat to transport myself and wheel down the flooded canals. Unfortunately I cannot swim, and as the carrying of cork floats, inflated bladders, or any other form of life preserver is burdensome, the establishment of a boat livery would serve to rob cycling of many of its dangers, and prove a great boon to myself and hundreds of others. If this is deemed impracticable, the alternative is to have a little judgment exercised in wetting the streets. Let them be sprinkled, and not soaked. If the prise idiot now in

A Western Man and Free Coinage.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

No President can stand high in the esteem of his party who ignores or vetoes a measure earnestly desired by his constituents. Governing himself by his own personal views, contrary to the wishes of that class of Democrats who believe in a majority rather than in a minority rule. To prove above assertions let facts be submitted to a candid world. Some time after his veto of the seigniorage bill came the election of November 6, '94; instead of showing an approval of the administration it proved to be a political Waterloo. Another evidence of disapproval of the Executive can be found in the fact that Congress refused to pass the "Carlisle Currency Bill."

It necessarily follows that the next Democratic candidate for President in '86 must possess the confidence of the party, by adhering to the old time-honored constitutional principles, that both gold and silver are legal tender for the payment of debts. If Mr. Cleveland could not stand by that proviso of the Democratic platform, which disapproves of the demonstization of one coin in favor of another, he should have declined to accept the nomination.

The Democratic party must abandon the idea of choosing Presidential timber out of any of the Eastern States; the candidate must necessarily come from the West. In order to enter the next canvass, candidly, let the Democratic party call conventions in every State of the Union for the purpose of declaring itself for the unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio of 18 to I.

The Law Is Mighty Uncertain.

To the Editor of the Fost-Dispatch:

Will you please explain, if possible, why a man who has unfortunately kfiled another man in defense of his life, and what is deafer to a man, his honor, as Taylor has done, should hang, while a drunken libertine like Duestrow, who in a fit of drunken temper with his mistress, a notorious woman of the town, murders his innocent wife and helpless little baby, is allowed to go free on the plea of insanity? It seems to the uninitiated that, in this land of liberty there is one law for the rich and another for the poor man. Is it a reality that "might (or money) is right?" L. K. CAMPBELL.

Thrashing for Girls.

Should girls be whipped, and, if they are whipped, do they feel the indignity more than boys? These questions agitated the London School Board during the latter part of its sitting recently. Mr. Athelstan Riley gave it as the fruit of his experience that girls were more spiteful than boys, and he seemed to think that, therefore, a caning would as a rule do them good, The question is to come up at a future meeting.

Straw musts are usually sold to match a tiny bonnet or dainty toque. If one forgets that they are not designed to be useful, but merely for effect, then they may be considered a great success. One of the most effective straw musts seen this spring is round in shape and made of coarse straw, burnt orange in color. At each end are double frills of black lace and caught through the center of the must are long-stemmed ox-eyed daisies. The satin lining matches the straw in color.

Be Less Noisy.

Boil two pounds of maple sugar in a pint or less of warm water until, when dropped nto cold water, it hardens. Add three tablespoonfuls of cidar, vinegar and pour nto tin pans to cool. This makes a healthy, andy for children.

Just at present the hair is parted and brushed aside, but rumor has it that parted hair is not to be the fashion much longer. To women no longer young, a parting is, as a rule, almost too severe, particularly if the hair be brushed smoothly back from the temples. Another rumor is to the effect that the old-fashioend "waterfall" is to be revived. Like crinoline, this fashion will be fought against by the majority of women until there is no possible hope left.

To the Editor of The Post-Dispatch.

In your issue of Wednesday under the caption of "Scored by a Democrat" my name appears as a member of the "Koetter's Hotel Caucus" which I desire corrected. Was not a member, invited or expected, for the simple reason that I was a pronounced friend of Judge Henry W. Bond, a candidate at that time for the Circuit bench, and who the leaders of that caucus had determined to beat and did. As for had determined to beat and did. As for any other caucus, I may have attended—did so in the interest of some particular candidate who I thought (in my humble judgment) would add strength to the ticket. With twenty years' active service to the party, have never held an office or been a candidate for one. Respectfully,

"In 1894 the Missouri Democracy adopted a platform which in substance was this: No gold monometallism: no sliver monometalism; free coinage of gold and sliver according to the policy which prevailed prior to the demonetization of (sliver) 1893." (Evidently you mean 1873 and not 1893.)

Now, Mr. Editor, please state what the policy was prior and up to 1873 regarding the coinage of sliver and gold? You say you recommend that platform, or policy, to the Democrats of Illinois. Yes; give us the exact policy and practice and laws that governed the coinage of the two metals and their coinage ratio up till 1873, and we will know the meaning of your recommendation to the Illinois Democracy—and also be able to define the meaning of the Missouri Democratic platform of 1894. THE PASTOR UNDER A CLOUD

No Light Thrown on the Double

Disappearance.

BAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 18.—The excitement that followed the discovery of the murdered body of Marian Williams in the library of Emanuel Baptist Church on Saturday last, and the finding of the mutilated, nude and decomposing remains of Blanche Lamont in the beifry of the same church on Sunday morning, just as the Easter bells were calling the devout to the church, has subsided in a great measure, but though a week has elapsed since the awful tragedies came to light public interest in the case continues unabated and it is the chief topic of conversation. The body of the young victim, Miss Williams, is at rest, in the case continues unabated and it is the chief topic of conversation. The body of the young victim, Miss Williams, is at rest, in the case continues unabated and it is the chief topic of conversation. The body of the young victim, Miss Williams, is at rest, in the cemetery, and the body of Blanche Lamont is now on its way to Dillon, Mont., her home, and will reach there to clay.

Added to the mystery of this double murder is the unsolved disappearance of Mrs. Forsythe, a member of Emanuel Church, who was last seen in Durant's company more than ten days ago gathering shells on the beach not far from a number of ether members of the church, who were enjoying an outing and gathering decorations for Easter.

Doubt as to the guilt of W. H. T. Durant, the young medical student who is accused for miles were chalmed to the finitiution. Both reports were referred to the Appropriations was amended.

more than ten days ago gathering shells on the beach not far from a number of other members of the church, who were enjoying an outing and gathering decorations for Easter.

Doubt as to the guilt of W. H. T. Durant, the young medical student who is accused formaily of killing Miss Williams and suspected of having slain Miss Lamont and possessing knowledge of Mrs. Forsythe's whereabouts, is freely expressed by many, and this doubt, being fostered by the parents and friends of the prisoner and those who mistrust circumstantial evidence, is spreading. There has been an undercurrent of opinion among these which was expressed in a statement to the newspapers by the mother of the accused man and which also have been boldly stated in anonymous letters to the Coroner, and have been published, and the actions of the pastor of the church, Rev. John George Gibson, have been so peculiar that the police might do well to turn their searchlight on him and those who openly profess to believe that the preacher might be the guilty man. These rumors, reaching the ears of the pastor, have naturally agitated and irritated him, and as a result has sent word to the reporters last night that he was suffering from mervous exhaustion." Earlier in the aftermon he stated that the reason he had not visited Durant, who was one of the active workers of his church, in his cell at the city prison was because of the inflamed sap imment of public opinion, and if he did call, the people would be quick to say that he, as an accomplice, had gone there to steady the nerves of the young man. Still Durant has expressed his surprise at the seeming neglect and desertion by the man to whom he naturally looked for the first word of sympathy and hope.

In split of these expressed suspicions against the preacher, it is almost beyond doubt that he is not in any manner implicated. as his whereabouts on the night of the murder and during the hour when Miss Williams was murdered are known, for he was during that time at a gathering of the young people at a chur lines, no matter to whom they tended, speaking of the matter Chief Crowley. "I am neither prosecutor nor perser. My duty is to collect all the evidence the prosecuting officers that is possible bain and this has been done. Yet all for the prosecuting officers that is possible to obtain and this has been done. Yet all the clews lead to Durant. I must give credence to the reports of my officers. Neither they nor myself are prejudiced in the case." The pelice have quit looking for bloody garments belonging to Durant, and have a new theory which makes blood on his clothes unnecessary. The theory is that the girl was first strangled in the reading-room, from one corner of which the dark little library opens, and was dragged in there dead. Then the cutting was done. In this event the blood would be venous blood and it would have welled forth gently. Chief Crowley is having the blood examined with a view to determining the matter.

There are many theories and rumors in circulation, and even the question of hypnosium has been brought into the affair as accounting for the manner in which the victims were lured into the church.

Important developments are looked for at the inquest, which will be determined today, having been postponed from Wedneslay.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April ib.—Representative Snyder's bill, providing for the weekly payment of wages by all corporations, was reported adversely by the Judiclary Committee. Mr. Snyder moved that the report of the committee be not concurred in, and the motion prevailed. The weekly pay bill passed four years ago, was declared unconstitutional chiefly on the ground that it was special legislation, applying only to individuals and corporations operating coal mines. Mr. Snyder meets this objection by making his measure apply to all corporations.

MISS MELTON'S ASSAILANTS

The Turkish Government's Pains to Secure Their Conviction.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 19.-In the diplomatic correspondence between the United States and Turkey during the past, diplomatic correspondence between the United States and Turkey during the past, which has just been made public, the correspondence in the Melton case is voluminous, and the complaints of certain missionaries that the Turkish Government and officers did not do their full duty in prosecuting the assailants of Miss Melton formed an important part of it. Minister Terrell, however, in his last note to the Turkish Minister, which is made a part of his report to Secretary Gresham, says;

"In securing the conviction of the wicked men who beat Miss Melton, a defenseless woman, in 1833, in the Village of Mosul, the Ottoman Government has shown an energy and determination to enforce justice worthy of the highest praise. The conviction was effected in a remote province and with many difficulties, which are known to the Minister of the United States. Miss Melton could not even recognize her assailants, but the Turkish Government has detected them in a wild district. nearly a thousand miles from its capital and secured their conviction."

Secretary Gresham has shown himself to be decidedly averse to entering upon any provisional arrangement with Turkey to regulate the status of naturalized American citizens who are in that country, although he has been to much trouble to extend protection to them. The reason for the Secretary's declination is found in his desire to stop at nothing short of a formal treaty by which the rights of this class of our citizens shall be fully guaranteed.

Coatmakers Refuse to Work Until Better Quarters Are Provided.

The local "sweat-shop" workers, weary of waiting for the State or the health author-ities to alleviate their conditions during the summer months, struck this morning for Wages have nothing to do with the walk-

Wages have nothing to do with the walkout. It is simply a protest against the filthy and unsanitary surroundings they are compelled to work in during the summer.

The resolution to quit work was adopted last night at a joint meeting of the two local assemblies, the Garment Workers', No.
19,853, and the Finishers and Fellers', No.
249, K. of L. Committees were appointed to call on the bosses and notify them of the action. They were at work early this morning—for work in the sweat-shops begins almost at sunrise. The bosses in most instances acquiesced and shut down. Where they did not, the workers walked out. At noon, from the committee reports, MasterWorkman Ben Stone figured out that 265 men and 145 women were out, enough to close down the forty-five coatmaking shops in St. Louis.

The defmand of the strikers is that the wholesalers shall give their work only to bosses working at least five teams. This would necessitate the rental of a large room.
In this way the common practice of putting a team of seven or nine people to work in a kitchen or back parlor would be abolished.

The wholesalers, Schmitz & Schroeder.

in a kitchen or back parior would be also ished.

The wholesalers, Schmitz & Schroeder, Schwab Clöthing Co., Rosenthal & Co., Baer-Seasongood, O. Abeles, Carry & Co. and others, were called on last week, but refused to pay any attention to the workers' demainds. The strikers claim that the bosses suspect the whole movement is a scheme to raise the price of labor.

This the workers deny. Their fight is for working-rooms where there will be light, room and a temperature of less than air, room and a temperature its degrees.

Both the local assemblies are affiliated with the Knights of Labor and the American Federation of Labor and expect to receive help from them in case their strike is prolonged. rolonged.

The strikers' headquarters for the present are at the Young Men's Hebrew Association rooms, 1125 North Seventh street.

The Executive Board of the strikers and the manufacturers will meet to-morrow afternoon and it is expected that the whole matter will be adjusted satisfactorily.

THE PASTOR UNDER A CLOUD

Light Thrown on the Double Crime or Mrs. Forsythe's

BAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 19.—The exsitement that followed the discovery of the murdered body of Marian Williams in the library of Emanuel Baptist Church on Saturday last, and the finding of the mutilated, nude and decomposing remains of Blanche Lamont in the belfry of the same church on Sunday morning, just as the Easter belis were calling the devout to the church, has subsided in a great measure, but though a week has elapsed since the awful tragedles came to light public interest in the case continues unabated and it is the chief topic of conversation. The body of the young victim, Miss Williams, is at rest in the cemetery, and the body of Blanche Lamont is now on its way to Dillon, Mont., her home, and will reach there to-day.
Added to the mystery of this double murder is the unsolved disappearance of Mrs.
Forsythe, a member of Emanuel Church, who was last seen in Durant's company more than ten days ago gathering shells on the beach not far from a number of other members of the church, who were enjoying an outing and gathering decorations for Easter.

Doubt as to the guilt of W. H. T. Durant BAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 19.-The ex-

Doubt as to the guilt of W. H. T. Durant, the young medical student who is accused formally of killing Miss Williams and suspected of having slain Miss Lamont and possessing knowledge of Mrs. Forsythe's whereabouts, is freely expressed by many, and this doubt, being fostered by the parents and friends of the prisoner and those who mistrust circumstantial evidence, its spreading. There has been an undercurrent of opinion among these which was expressed in a statement to the newspapers by the parents of the statement of the newspapers by the parents of the statement of the newspapers by the parents of the statement of the newspapers by the parents of the statement of the newspapers by the parents of the parents of the parents of the comment of the parents of the comment of the parents of the comment of the parents of the

at the inquest, which will be determined today, having been postponed from Wednesday.

One of the witnesses before the Coroner's jury was Elmer Weife, an intimate friend of Durant. Wolfe was in the neighborhood of Emanuel Church on the night Miss Williams was murdered and claims to have seen Durant within a block of that edifice as he went home. There are some strange things in Wolfe's testimony which do not dovetail with facts and the Coroner will have the young man explain all these apparent discrepancies, if he can.

That section of the city where Emanuel Charch is located was originally the Mission Dolores, founded by the friars 100 years are and is to this day generally designated as "The Mission." Popular sentiment of the mission favors the razing of the edifice.
This feeling extends even to those who are not financially interested in the property, but have an interest in the moral atmosphere of the neighborhood. The church has always been under a cloud. A stain of human blood marks its history from one pastor who killed a newspaper proprietor and then blew out his own brains thence to the awful tragedy that is now before the people. Everywhere is heard the expression, "Burn the place down." The feeling is that the church should never again be opened as a place of worship.

As a result of these threatening expressions the insurance companies have cancelled their policies, and the police have been on quard there since the tragedy.

It is reported that Durant and his lawyers are preparing a statement outlining the defense, which will be an endeavor to prove an allbi.

BPRINGFIELD, Ill., April is.—Representative Snyder's bill, providing for the weekly bayment of wages by all corporations, was reported adversely by the Judiciary Committee. Mr. Snyder moved that the report of the committee be not concurred in, and he motion prevailed. The weekly pay bill bassed four years ago, was declared unconstitutional chiefly on the ground that it was special legislation, applying only to individuals and corporations operating coal nines. Mr. Snyder meets this objection by making his measure apply to all corporations.

The House Committee on Building and mines. Mr. Snyder meets this objection by making his measure apply to all corporations.

The House Committee on Building and Loan Associations has receded from its action of a week ago, recommending the adoption of Mr. Lewenthal's resolution for an investigation of the Interstate Building and Loan Association of Bloomington, of which Vice-Preseident Adlai E. Stevenson is President. A sub-committee of five was appointed to make the investigation. Mr. Lowenthal objected to this, saying that a sub-committee had no power to summon witnesses or to compel the production of books and papers, and that the proceeding was merely a scheme to amother the investigation. He will carry the fight into the House.

Majority and minority reports on the State Home for Juvenile Offenders at Chicago were made by the committee to visit penal and reformatory instituions. The majority report alleges extravagance, the average cost per capita of eighteen girls for fourteen months being il.30. Many girls were frregularly committed. Dissensions among the Board of Managers spread to the employers and inmates. The men managers are said to have given no attention to the institution, and the ladies who interested themselves, Mrs. Wallaces and Mrs. Holt, quarreleg. The report stated that there was a dark room in which girls were chained to the floor and given bread and water. The reformatory was pronounced a fallure and it was the recommendation that no appropriation be made until the law governing the institution was amended.

The minority report was an indorsement of the management of the institution. Both reports were referred to the Appropriations Committee.

MISS MELTON'S ASSAILANTS

The Turkish Government's Pains to Se cure Their Conviction.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 19.-In the diplomatic correspondence between the United States and Turkey during the past which has just been made public, the correspondence in the Melton case is volumiwhich has just been made public, the correspondence in the Melton case is voluminous, and the complaints of certain missionaries that the Turkish Government and officers did not do their full duty in prosecuting the assailants of Miss Melton formed an important part of it. Minister Terrell, however, in his last note to the Turkish Minister, which is made a part of his report to Secretary Gresham, says:

"In securing the conviction of the wicked men who beat Miss Melton, a defenseless woman, in 1833, in the Village of Mosul, the Ottoman Government has shown an energy and determination to enforce justice worthy of the highest praise. The conviction was effected in a remote province and with many difficulties, which are known to the Minister of the United States. Miss Melton could not even recognize her assailants, but the Turkish Government has detected them in a wild district nearly althousand miles from its capital and secured their conviction."

Secretary Gresham has shown himself to be decidedly averse to entering upon any provisional arrangement with Turkey to regulate the status of naturalized American citizens who are in that country, although he has been to much trouble to extend protection to them. The reason for the Secretary Seclination is found in his desire to stop at nothing short of a formal treaty by which the rights of this class of our citizens shall be fully guaranteed.

A Brooklyn Man With a Bad Case of Hydrophobia.

Special to The Post-Dispatch, NEW YORK, April 19.—Peter Moran, frothing at the mouth and apparently suffering from an epileptic fit, was found yesterday on Franklin street, Brooklyn, and taken to the Hospital. On the way he began to snap and bark like a dog, and raved for some time after being received at the hospital, showing all the symptoms of hydrophobia. Finally he felt better and demanded that he be allowed to go home. READY TO FIGHT RITUALISM Protestant Episcopal Church Association Organized.

ISAAC M. MASON, PRESIDENT.

Rev. Dr. Holland Delivers a Scath ing Criticism of the Society and Makes Odious Comparisons.

The Protestant Episcopal Church Association is the name of the society of Episco palian laymen formed to oppose ritualism Its president is Capt. Isaac M. Mason, and retary William P. Nelson. The other officers and members are men equally as prominent in professional and business

While the existence of the society has not been a secret, since the Post-Dispatch while the existence of the society has not been a secret, since the Post-Dispatch announced its birth, a few weeks ago, the fullness of its growth is not suspected.

Last Wednesday night it adopted a constitution and set of by-laws and completed lits permanent organization. If the constitution and by-laws could be printed verbatim, the hair of ritualistic clergymen would stand on end, and they would seriously asks themselves if they and the members of the Protestant Episcopal Church Association belong to the same spiritual body. But the officers and members of the society are loth to let their objects go into print at present.

A reporter had the pleasure of reading the constitution and declaration of principles of the Protestant Episcopal Church Association, and he can vouch for the document's straightout terse arraignment of ritualism. The society is organized to maintain the non-sacerdotal character of the clergy, to oppose everything that is an approach to Roman Catholicism and all superstitious forms, such as genufiecting or the bending of the knee before the altar, etc. Lighted candles on the altar, and other practices of the ritualists have the special enmity of the society.

The maintenance of what is in harmony with and the eradication of what is contrary to the thirty-nine articles is a leading specification in the statement of objects. The Confraternity of the Blessed Sacrament and the Guild of Ail Saints are not named in the declaration, but the reference to them is direct and they are set down as being secret societies, for the propagation of doctrines peculiarly Roman Catholic. These doctrines peculiarly Roman Catholic. These doctrines peculiarly Roman Catholic. These doctrines are the divine presence and the efficacy of prayers for the dead, who are suffering temporary punishment.

They declare that a leaven of Puseyism, an English synonym for ritualism and pro-Romanism has synead through the contribution box, and the diocesan treasury. Missions and weak parishes having high church rectors, wil its equally criticised sister, the Guild for all Souls.

"I do not belong to either organization," said the doctor, "and doubtless the members of both of them would refuse me admittance if I sought it, as being too heretical for their rigid insistance upon the ancient interpretations of the creeds. I believe from current report, that the object of the confraternity is to foster a more reverent worship of the eucharist, and the object of the guild to pray for the souls of the dead."

The doctor thought a moment and then dictated a scathing criticism of the Protestant Episcopal Church Association. He compared the reported secrecy of the confraternity and the guild with that of the association, saying:
"The difference between a secret society

"The difference between a secret society organized for mutual aid and the cultivation of some positive end, for instance morality or some special virtue, after the manner of the Free Masons, Oddfellows, etc., and a society whose secrecy has for its purpose menace and persecution like the A. P. pose menace and persecution like the A. P. A., and this conspiracy, if the description of it be true, is that the secrecy of the latter is the hiding of meanness and secrecy. "To lie in wait and strike from the dark is base enough among assassins, but to consecrate it with the name of the religion of Christ and make it a method of propagandism in the Church of God beats the baseness of thugs, whose craven crueity spares those of their own tribe, if it does use stealth and guile to strike down its outside foes.

spares those of their own thoe, if it does use stealth and guile to strike down its outside foes.

"What might excuse these conspirators against their own church is their ignorance of that church's doctrine and polity. I doubt if one of them knows what ritualism means. I doubt if one of them has ever read a history of his church. I doubt if one of them could give any reason why he is a churchman at all. I am quite sure that none of them know that nearly every practice he opposes has already been adjudicated by the highest courts of the church and decided to be legal. Candles! If candles on the altar are ritualistic then St. Paul's Cathedral in London is ritualistic, and Bishop Potter's private chapel in New York is ritualistic, and the broad Cameron Mann of Kansas City is a Romanizer, and all these ought to be evicted at once from the church, of which these blockheads would be landlords. Poor things! Poor things! They will soon wriggle out their brief spasm. But what is it in the church of St. Louis that makes it possible that only here? of all cities in America, such maggots should be bred?"

When a rector as prominent as Dr. Holland uses these harsh terms, there are going to be sharp encounters between the P. E. Church Association and its opponents.

Police Will Adopt a Fabian Policy in

The bill requiring the Police Board to d trict the immoral houses has become a law ture. A Post-Dispatch reporter asked Com-missioner John A. Lee to what district or missioner John A. Lee to what district or part of the city these houses would be confined by the Police Board.

"I do not think," he said, "that the Board will act hastily under the new law. The selection of a district unobjectionable to property holders will be very difficult. It may be that the matter will adust itself, through the manipulations of real estate agents and property owners.

"If this could be done it would be much more satisfactory than for the board to designate a certain district or locality, for the objections of residents and property-holders will be so avoided.

"The matter has not been considered or discussed by the board, as we have been waiting for the law to be signed by the Governor. Therefore, I do not speak for the board, but merely give my individual views."

RELIEF FOR THE EDISON.

Bill in the Council May Affect the Special City Attorneys.

The Edison Illuminating Co., Missouri Electric Light and Power Co. and Municipal Electric Lighting and Power Co. have had reintroduced in the Municipal Assembly heir relief bill, known in the last Assembly as Council bill No. 228. The bill was handed in on Tuesday by Councilman Keyes, and is in on Tuesday by Councilman Reyes, and is now in the hands of the Public Improve-ments Committee. It is intended to relieve the companies from the obligation to pay the city 5 per cent of their gross receipts, to impose the payment of a total sum of $70,-000, and to settle certain disputes on other features of the contract, particularly with regard to the cost of burial of the wires and authority of the city to compet such dispo-sition.

authority of the city to compet such disposition.

Since the death of Council bill 228 in committee in the House of Delegates Mayor Walbridge has appointed Judge D. D. Fisher and Mr. E. C. Kehr attorneys for the city under authority of a special ordinance, to take legal action looking to the recovery of the 5 per cent stipulated for by the general electric lighting contracts of March 13, 1889. The introduction of this ordinance is to forestall any such action on the part of the city.

is to forestall any such action on the part of the city.

Mr. Kehr was called on Friday morning and asked whether he was aware of the introduction of the new relief bill.

"If it is in the morning paper I have not seen it," was his first response.

"Are you prepared to begin sult for the recovery of the 5 per cent?"

"I cannot discuss my intentions regarding this case; but I will say that the introduction of this bill will make no difference in my action."

tion of this bill will make no difference in my action."

Judge Daniel D. Fisher said: "I have made two or three attempts since my appointment to confer with the Mayor, but when I went to his office he was always busy. Until I have consulted him I cannot say whether or not suit will be brought. If the Mayor leaves it to the attorneys we will then decide what is best to be done. But I cannot say now whether or not the suit will be prosecuted."

Under the contract between these gentlemen and the city they receive $1,20 each as a retainer, and a handsome percentage of the money recovered.

Sunday the Diels and Meyers play at the Pastime grounds.

Base Ball Notes. Base Ball Notes.

Jimmy Ryan says that Breitenstein is one of the few free arm left hand twiriers, and that he will, in consequence, last as long as the huskiest of right hand pitchers. Jim Hart, the Chicago Club President, says that the first six clubs in the League will make money while the remaining six cannot expect to do otherwise than lose. While not exactly confident that such will be the case, Anson is in hopes that his team will make it three straight with the Browns. The victory over Breitenstein pleased him immensely.

Manager and Captain Pat Tebeau registered his Cleveland team at Cincinnati as Patsey Tebeau and his coming champions.

Maiachi Kittredge and Jimmy Ryan are very much opposed to sacrifice hitting except in the minth inning of a game in which the score is close.

The players say that Breitenstein has a heavy arm and that it will take the hot the score is close.

Druggists Report the Regular Prescription Business Killed.

More Poisonous Drugs and Nauseating Doses for the Sick of St. Louis.

Although there has been a tremendous increase in the sale of Munyon's New Remedies, every week since his arrival here, the demand during the past six days has been simply phenomenal, everybody seems to have gone wild over these little sugar pellets. Druggists report the old prescription business dead, not one-third the number being filled that there was three weeks ago. One prominent pharmacist said: "At first when Munyon advertised his new school of medicine, I laughed at the claims made for it, but as the demand increased I put in a small stock, expecting in a few weeks that the sale would die out, as hundreds of others have; to my surprise it has increased so rapidly that to-day I cannot keep enough in stock. Old customers of mine who have been doctoring for years have left me cured by a few bottles of these remedies, in fact, so many of my neighbors have told me what wonderful results they obtain from this new school of medicine, I have become convinced of its true value, and take pleasure in recommending the new treatment to all."

Hundreds of druggists in St. Louis echo the above. The old strips of decrease is a thirm of

mitted and Explained. Peter, L. A. Haustein, Fred Ham-

J. A. Peter, L. A. Haustein, Fred Hammill, Louis Hagemeier, Henry A. Koentzer, John Kathrinkel, William Forrest, Michael Goldman, Eugene C. Longuet and Thomas G. Davis, ten of the twelve jurors in the George Thompson poisoning case called at the Four Courts this morning and made affihavits concerning the sensational story incorporated by Attorney C. Early in his application for a new trial.

Early charged that the jury was separated on Sunday morning, March 24, against the provisions of the statutes. In their affidavits the jurors admit the truth of this assertion and explained it in this way. On that, Sunday morning Juror Hamill was so ill that Dr. Joseph J. Fitzpatrick of the Health Department had to be callled in to attend him. Accordingly when Deputy Sheriff Schopperkoetter took the other elevene jurymen to breakfast, Hammill remained in the jury-room, guarded by Deputy Sheriff Jacob Troll. After breakfast, Juror Kingsbury returned to Hammill's side while Schoppecker took the other-ten for a walk. The jurors swore that neither Hammill or Kingsbury drank whisky or discussed the case with anyone.
